TWITCH OVERLAYS

Client Commission

Conceptualization

The client requested a clean logo, banner, and overlays for their Twitch channel, with a theme using Final Fantasy.

When asked if they had a specific character in mind for the logo, the client chose a Chocobo as the central element.

Process

I gathered references from official Final Fantasy artwork and created a vectorized version of the Chocobo.

To reflect the client's request for a "chill and cozy" vibe, I used a light color palette.

The yellow of the Chocobo paired well with soft blues, especially highlighting the character's blue eyes for a pleasing contrast.

Animated Overlays

The client requested simple overlays to display their stream status. I added animated backgrounds as a finishing touch to enhance the overall presentation.

Twitch Banner

The client specifically requested a pastel yellow background. To complement the theme, I incorporated a subtle egg pattern for added charm and visual noise.

Camera Overlay

As a bonus, I designed a sleek camera overlay that blends smoothly with the rest of the overlays.

CONCEPT

Coffee Brand Flavor

Conceptualization

I created a conceptual coffee brand with a welcoming and gentle aesthetic. An aesthetic that feels soft on the outside but delivers a bold, hard-hitting caffeine hit.

The concept was inspired by the character Aya Shameimaru, known for her incredible speed. It made her the perfect metaphor for the brand's core idea:

Speed and Energy = Caffeine.

Process

I used a Tengu's token hat as the main logo, as it's a universal symbol associated with Tengu.

I started with a hand-drawn sketch and then converted it into a vector graphic to ensure clean lines and high-quality scalability.

Sample Advertisement

Using the character's color scheme, I designed an advertisement for a new flavor called "White Feather."

I incorporated angular brush strokes to evoke the feeling of it being written with a feather dipped in ink, while also emphasizing the bold, hard-hitting nature of the flavor.

CONCEPT

Tourism for a shrine

Conceptualization

Located in Nagano Prefecture, Suwa Taisha is one of Japan's oldest Shinto shrines, with a history spanning over 1,200 years.

The shrine is known for its distinctive white torii gate and its serene setting, surrounded by lush nature. Inspired by this environment, I chose a green-themed color palette to reflect the natural tranquility of the site.

Suwa Grand Shrine Tori Gate.

Process

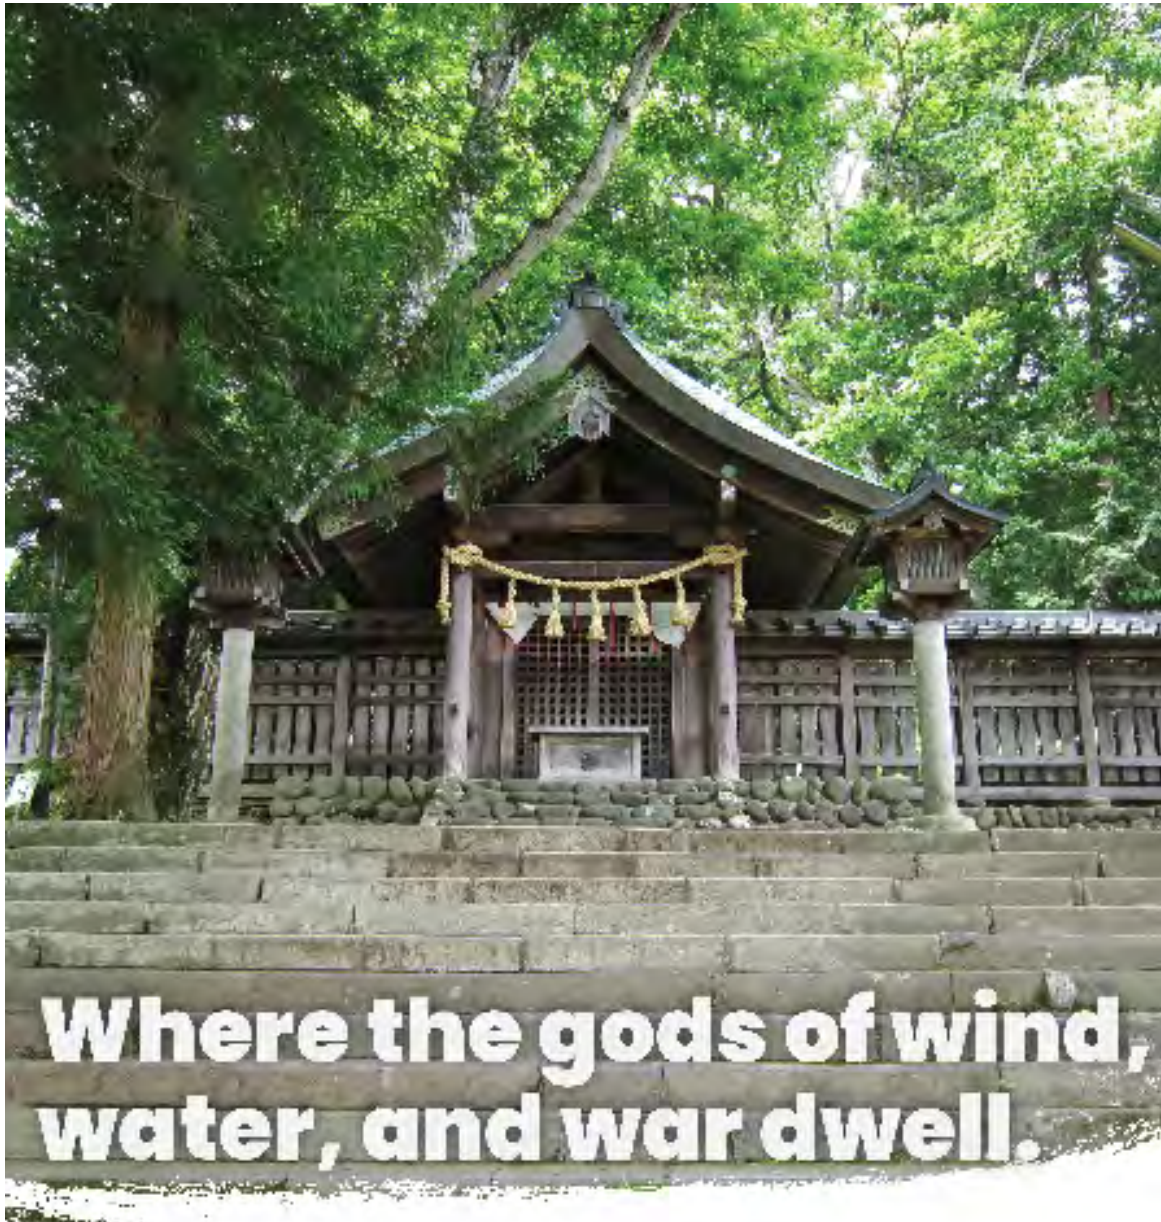

I used a brush texture for the logo to give it an organic, handcrafted feel, drawing from reference images of similar logos with related themes for stylistic consistency.

The green symbolizes a reinterpretation of the "Rising Sun" not in its traditional red, but in a vibrant green to represent growth, renewal, and harmony with nature.
